Putin oversees nuclear drills

Russian strategic nuclear forces held exercises overseen by President Vladimir Putin yesterday, and Washington accused Russian troops of advancing and being “poised to strike”. With Western fears of war rising, Russian forces are demanding that Nato prevent Ukraine from ever joining the alliance but says Western warnings that it is planning to invade Ukraine is “hysterical and dangerous”. Moscow says it is pulling back, but Washington and others say the build-up is “uncoil and move closer” to the border. Russian forces are “poised to strike”. Russia ordered the military build-up while demanding that Nato prevent Ukraine from ever joining the alliance but says Western warnings that it is planning to invade Ukraine is “hysterical and dangerous”. Moscow says it is pulling back, but Washington and others say the build-up is mounting. Venting his frustration at a security conference in Munich, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskiy said the global security architecture was “almost broken”. He urged the permanent members of the UN Security Council, Germany and Turkey to meet to draw up new security guarantees for his country.

Qatar-Algeria relations set to reach new heights

His Highness the Amir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad al-Thani led well-wishers to welcome Algerian President Abdelmadjid Tebboune upon his arrival at Doha International Airport yesterday on a state visit to the country. President Tebboune is accompanied by an official delegation. His Highness the Personal Representative of the Amir Sheikh Jassim bin Hamad al-Thani was also present to welcome the president of Algeria. Also present were a number of Sheikhs and ministers, Qatar’s ambassador to Algeria Abdulaziz bin Ali al-Naema and Algerian ambassador Dr Mustafa Boutoura.

The state visit of President Tebboune comes within the framework of the distinguished historical relations between the two countries and the joint and continuous keenness to support and advance them towards deeper and more comprehensive horizons, in a manner that serves the common interests, goals and aspirations of the two countries and their peoples, the Qatar News Agency reports.

The Amir will receive at the Amiri Diwan today the President of Algeria to discuss bilateral relations between the two brotherly countries and ways to support and enhance them, in addition to the latest regional and international developments of common concern.

The talks that will take place during the visit will contribute to the development of relations between Doha and Algiers in various fields, and to supporting the Arab and international issues about which the two countries share common visions.

The Algerian President’s visit is also gaining an exceptional dimension in term of its timing, as it comes before the Arab Summit that will be hosted by Algeria. The visit also coincides with the fifth summit of the leaders of member states of the Gas Exporting Countries Forum (GECF) that will be held in Doha this week, given that the two countries are among the largest producers and exporters of natural gas in the world.

VCUarts Qatar announces lecture series for public

Award-winning media artist and film-maker Jonah King will deliver first lecture of 2022

The Gallery at VCUarts Qatar, Commonwealth School of the Arts in Qatar (VCUarts Qatar) has announced that its “Crossing Boundaries” lecture series will start with an online lecture by film-maker Jonah King (VCUarts Qatar). The lecture will be held on Monday, January 31, 2022.

The lecture will be held online at https://vcuartsqatar.zoom.us/j/88431497205. Further information is available on The Gallery’s website, https://vcuartsqatar.com/gallery/

Born in Dublin, Ireland, and based in New York, King is a media artist, filmmaker and educator who explores how ecological intimacies give rise to culture and identity. In this specific lecture organized by the Qatar Foundation for Education, Development and Research, she will discuss her ongoing research project, Invisible Mountains, a “virtual reality networking that explores the interconnections of humans and non-humans through underground fungal networks.”

Following Monday’s lecture, King will conduct a workshop entitled “Cultural Knowledge, Technology, and Education” on Tuesday, February 1, 2022.

The workshop will take place online both on-site and at the Alwadi Hotel. Participation is free for students and faculty members of VCUarts Qatar and Education City.

Participants will explore the creation and use of digital art in emerging technology trends in the Middle East region. They will also discuss how concepts and experiences shape audience expectations and identity. Participants will also have the opportunity to interact with each other and to exhibit their art online.

Following the workshop, King will conduct a second workshop on February 22, 2022.

Students take stand on poverty at Thimun Qatar conference

The fifth edition of the Thimun Qatar conference, which was held from April 21 to 23, brought together hundreds of young delegates from around the world to discuss, explore, and address the most pressing issues in today’s society. The conference, held at the Qatar National Library (QNL), brought together students from various disciplines, including Saleh Alqubaisy, arriving from Lebanon, a country that has been facing numerous challenges. He highlighted the importance of addressing these issues with empathy, determination, and a willingness to collaborate in order to make a difference.

The conference was organized by QNL and supported by the Ministry of Education and Higher Education. The event aimed to provide a platform for young people to engage in meaningful discussions and take action on pressing social issues.

AAB introduces Lexus Connected Service in Qatar

The AAB Abu Dhabi Co (AAB), domiciled in Qatar, and Toyota Motor Corporation have announced the launch of the Lexus Connected Service in Qatar. AAB customers can now use the convenience and security afforded by the Lexus Connected Service, which will allow them to keep track of their vehicle's performance, usage, and location. The service will also provide remote access to the vehicle, enabling users to check the fuel level, lock or unlock the doors, and even start the engine remotely.

The Lexus Connected Service is designed to offer enhanced peace of mind to Lexus owners by providing real-time vehicle monitoring and the ability to receive alerts in the event of any issues. This service will complement the existing Lexus Safety System+, which includes features such as lane departure warning, forward collision warning, and automatic emergency braking.

Lexus Connected Service is available on all new Lexus vehicles and can be activated through the Lexus Connect app. The service is designed to provide customers with peace of mind, ensuring they are always informed about the state of their vehicle and that it is operating safely and efficiently. Customers can use the app to monitor their vehicle's performance, check the fuel level, lock or unlock the doors, and even start the engine remotely.

H i l a r y M an d e l, a co-founder of the Thimun Qatar Foundation, underlined the importance of engaging young people in the process of change. She emphasized that by collaborating and working together, students can make a significant impact on social issues.

The Thimun Qatar conference is an annual event that brings together students from around the world to discuss and address pressing global issues. The conference aims to empower young people to take action and develop the skills needed to be effective change-makers.

Nearly 60 rebel fighters ‘neutralised’ in Mali: army

Eight soldiers and 12 “mercenaries” were killed in clashes at a rebel base “at the southern edge of Kidal”, said the Malian army. The attack came as tensions escalate in the northern part of the country, which is occupied by armed groups.

The Malian army said it carried out the attack against the rebel base after its troops had been attacked by “mercenaries from outside the country”. The army did not provide details of the attack.

The Malian government has been trying to negotiate with the rebels in the north, where they have been fighting against government forces for weeks. The rebels have been demanding autonomy for their region, which includes the town of Kidal.

The attack comes amid growing tension between the Malian government and the rebels, who have been fighting for control of the region. The rebels have been accused of targeting civilians in the area, including attacks on schools and hospitals.

The Malian army said it was carrying out the operation to打击 terrorist groups in the area.

According to the BBC, “Any one who is ‘perceived to be a victim’ can be targeted. In many cases, the threats have been sent via social media platforms such as Twitter and Facebook.”

“Just be aware that the number of people writing hate comments has grown in recent years,” said an expert who has been investigating hate crimes in South Korea for many years.

Prime Minister Kim Boo-kyum concluded that the minimum age for a person to be considered a victim of online violence would be 16 years old.

The government has been facing strong backlash from small businesses and self-employed people who say COVID restrictions are too strict and not enough.

The country was also asked to increase hand sanitizers in public places and maintain handwritten visitor logs to allow for contact tracing, officials said. The vast majority of online attacks are directed at women and children, experts said.

“In the face of the current spike in cases, our health authorities are calling on the population to follow the guidelines and avoid unnecessary gatherings,” said the South Korean government.

“Those of you who leave me alone and focus on your own lives,” said the British president, “will find that you’re happy.”

Anyone who is “perceived to be a victim” can be targeted. In many cases, the threats have been sent via social media platforms such as Twitter and Facebook.

“We are working round the clock to prevent these attacks,” said a police spokesperson.

“The prime minister’s decision to order a review of utility switching networks is being welcomed by a range of organizations, including the British government.”

The WHO established its global mRNA technology transfer hub to help low- and middle-income countries to the back of the queue for Covid-19 vaccines.

WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said the WHO mRNA technology transfer hub is part of a multi-billion dollar project to create a vaccine hub in Africa and Tunisia would be the first on the continent to receive mRNA vaccines, which are important for vaccine manufacturing on a large scale and on international standards.

Training of the recipient countries will begin next month. Pfizer-BioNTech and Moderna for their Covid-19 shots.

The WHO said it has been working to establish a bio-manufacturing training hub that will train people from all interested countries in scientific and clinical research and production capacity.

T he ultimate goal is to extend capacity building for national and regional production to all health technologies, in low- and middle-income countries to produce their own vaccines and medicines and develop the necessary operational procedures and know-how to manufacture mRNA vaccines at scale and on international standards.

Obviously, this has pushed low- and middle-income countries to the back of the queue for Covid-19 vaccines.

WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said the WHO mRNA technology transfer hub was established to work with the beneficiary countries to develop a roadmap and address their health priorities.

The WHO has already established mRNA vaccine production at laboratory scale and is working to commercial production. Training of the recipient countries will begin next month.

To ensure that all countries build the necessary capacity to manufacture their own vaccines and other health technologies, WHO has been working to establish a bio-manufacturing training hub that will train people from all interested countries in scientific and clinical research and production capacity.

The WHO established its global mRNA technology transfer hub after large-scale vaccine purchases by wealthy countries and companies prioritizing sales to governments that could pay the highest price.

WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said the WHO mRNA technology transfer hub was established to work with the beneficiary countries to develop a roadmap and address their health priorities.

Ashghal opens Al Oyoun Street

The Public Works Authority (Ashghal) has announced that Al Oyoun Street has been opened to traffic.

The opening will provide a direct connection between Al Shamal Road and Thani Bin Jassim Street, and has been carried out in co-ordination with the General Directorate of Traffic, Ashghal tweeted yesterday.

The street will provide a new access route for traffic to Al Shamal Road. Ashghal has also built a new signal control system and new service roads to accommodate 4,388 vehicles per hour, along with new service roads to facilitate access to Lusail and Al Shamal Road. Al Oyoun Street is integrated with New Al Hafees Street built by Ashghal, to provide an alternative route rather than Al Shamal Road between Lusail and Al Gharrafa Towards Sabah Al Ahmad Corridor.
