Ashwin spins India to crushing win over Windies

His haul of seven for 83 off 25 overs followed his third Test hundred – 113 – in India's massive first innings total of 566 for eight declared at the Sir Vivian Richards Stadium

ENGLISH CAPTAIN ALASTAIR COOK said that Pakistan should be given a "soft" opening day in the second Test in order to "tease out" their issues and set up a "rout" after the tourists had been "comfortably" bowled out for 253 in the first innings.

"It could have gone either way, but that's not an inflammatory statement," said Cook, on a day where four wickets had fallen in both innings – whenever that came.

"It was a pretty simple decision to bat first," added Cook.

England shared the opening day between them, going in at lunch on 107 for two. They were then all out for 253 in the first innings when wicketkeeper Jonny Bairstow was caught behind off Muhammad Shami.

England's batsmen had to work hard to counter the spin and the pace bowlers, with the exception of Matt Prior, who was bowled out for 53.

PAKISTAN ASSISTANT COACH Mickey Arthur told reporters Monday that the tourists had to bat better in the second innings.

"I don't think we've been as good as we need to be in the second innings – whenever that came," said Arthur.

He added: "The success of our batting in the second innings will determine the course of play with the bat.

"It is simple, and I'll tell them that."

CAPTAIN COOK said he would not change his opening day tactics from the first Test, which England won by 102 runs.

More ‘B Team’ than ‘Dream Team’ as US eye Rio gold

With the depth of our national roster we were able to select a very strong team.

It would be difficult to lay down any victory dice for the teams vying for the 3x3 basketball gold medals, given most of the players have never competed under those conditions at the highest level. In addition, the sport has only been on the Olympic program for the last three years.

The United States, with a roster the likes of which the world has never seen before, are the favorites to repeat from London. But just about everyone else believes the Americans will lose.

"If there is a weakness, it’s psychological," said Mike Krzyzewski, the head coach for the U.S. national team. "The United States that their absence has created is the depth of basketball talent in the world."

"Before you start building the dream team, you need to have the basics down," said John Calipari, coach of the University of Kentucky. "You need to have the foundation down."

"The United States has an almost endless supply of talent capable of providing Olympic-size nightmares for opponents," said Colangelo, who has been in charge of the USA Basketball programs since 2005.

There are a few reasons why the United States might not rule the Olympic basketball world as it did in the 1990s and early 2000s. The game is more diverse, and the level of talent has spread beyond the United States.

The United States has been in a state of transition for the last 15 years, with more international players joining the NBA and more talent emerging from other countries. The presence of NBA players in college has also been reduced, making it more difficult for the United States to dominate the global scene.

"There is certainly enough shooting, a good point guard and two stars in the frontcourt who can control the ball," added Calipari. "If you can control the ball, you can dominate this sport."

"Our goal is to sell out all the tickets for the Games," said Colangelo. "We are working closely with sponsors on the programs. Some companies invest more than 100 years in these Games."

Within the ring she is a tigress prowling for the killer punch and merciless once her opponent is in reach but Sue Hearn will be the second oldest Australian to make her Games debut. She has fought for money while remaining eligible for the Olympics and counted herself lucky to get a shot at the Sydney Games and the Rio delegation is the 410-strong Australia team heading for Brazil where she has been unbeaten since 2011 but suffered a blip ahead of this year’s World Championships.

Taylor will be seeking to get to the Olympic Games and International Boxing Association (AIBA) held in 2011 that “we will still need to keep the vest for a constitutional change in June that allows professionals in for the first time. AIBA’s president Wu Ching-kuo said in response to a query. “It has to be approved by the relevant AIBA commission and approved by the IOC (International Olympic Committee).”

Taylor — an all-round sportswoman who has won the world titles in 2013 and 2015, while also promoting the use of a cut preventative cream. Lewis, meanwhile, will be chasing a medal in Rio. Preventative research from him and Australian Andrew Loosemore, who was also found to be positive, raised doubts about his inclusion for next month’s Olympics.

The golden medalists, the one Bob earned with brother Mike at London 2012, is his prized souvenir from a trophy-laden career that has earned him five major titles, including 15 grand slam wins.

London was the biggest title we’ve won, we were so pumped,” Bob says. “There’s nothing to compare.”

It’s the only thing ChrisAddison has won in his career, and he’s come close to adding another, with the pair reaching the doubles final at the World Championships.

Chances are Bob would win the gold if he didn’t have a twin brother to compete with. The pair have been playing together since childhood, and Chris says he’d probably be competing in doubles if Bob wasn’t around.

“We had always been good together, but I think he’d end up within the top 30 in the world,” says Chris. “He’s just got a bit of that genius all around him.”

When Bob’s medal went missing, the Addisons were left to ponder what had happened to their dream of winning Olympic gold.

“We’ve never been away from each other before,” says Chris. “We’ve been together our whole lives.”

For the Addisons, the medal was a symbol of their twin bond, and it was a symbol of their determination to succeed.

And now, with the medal back in their possession, the Addisons are looking forward to the future.

“If we were to compete against each other, it would be a real battle,” says Bob. “But we’re not going to do that.”

For the Addisons, the medal is a reminder of their past, and a promise of what they can achieve in the future.

“Bob’s medal is not just mine,” says Chris. “It’s our medal.”

The Addisons are looking forward to the future, and they know that with hard work and determination, they can achieve their dreams.

“Bob and I are going to go out and win gold,” says Chris. “We’re going to do it together.”

It’s the right time for me, says Allardyce

“I’m at the right age with the right experience. Hopefully I can pass on my knowledge to the players and get that team behind the team to try to get a very happy camp that becomes successful!“

Allardyce will be expected to derive more time than previous England managers to all age groups, working at all St George’s Park facilities. The England international period and friendly international matches will also be priced in to the new role. Allardyce’s new contract as manager will begin on 1 October.

“It is the right time for me,” says Allardyce.

Ten years on, he is convinced that the English game has improved, and he is ready to take on the England job after being aboard the England’s management team over the last six years.

“It was the right time for me,” says Allardyce.

Allardyce told the arguments that he had in mind to take on the England job, and that he had worked with the players and staff to prepare himself for the task.

It proved costly in his four years at West Ham United and he was sacked in December 2014 after a poor run in the Premier League. He then took to his new club and managed the England team, and then turned his attention to the Belgium national team. City boss Guardiola to shake on renewed Mourinho rivalry

‘Why should we not shake hands? No reason why. He will want to win and so will I, that’s all’

PARIS - Jose Mourinho pushed aside any suggestions he would not shake hands with arch-rival Jose Guardiola and insisted it would be ‘like申花’ when Manchester City play Manchester United.

But Mourinho said yesterday when asked if the two bosses would shake hands, despite an acrimonious rivalry which saw Mourinho win 2-0 in 2013, when the Catalan had stewardship of Barcelona and Mourinho took the reins of Real Madrid.

‘Why should we not shake hands? No reason why. He will want to win and so will I, that’s all,’ the City boss told reporters on Thursday to conclude their China tour.

‘It’s a friendly game, a really important game. I think in the last few days our fans have been excited and talking about it, I think it’s great, a friendly game.

‘I think the two bosses respect each other very well, as they have throughout their careers and it’s a great game. It’s not a thing thatMLS managers would do, but I think in this case it’s a great idea, and we have talked about it, about getting the fans involved, to see if we can find some way to make it happen.

‘We wanted to make it happen because of the fans and to see if we can have some fun with the fans.

‘I think it’s a good idea because it’s a friendly game, it’s a big game and it’s a big opportunity for both teams.

‘I’m sure the fans will enjoy it and we will also enjoy it.

China chaos has Jose pining for home comforts

Manchester United manager Jose Mourinho has questioned whether the club should play a world-record transfer for his fellow Spanish boss, Real Madrid's Pep Guardiola.

United have been negotiating with former Premier League stars such as he who is a target for new manager Jose Mourinho, according to media reports in Britain.

Schleske was Figo's team mate when the latter was a teenager at United and knows despite his obvious talent, the Spaniard international has a long way to go before he can compete on the world stage.

Spokesman and Mourinho can’t wait for it to be different planes, “Mourinho commented.

Monfils to face Croat Karlovic in Washington final

It was difficult conditions: Monfils said. It was very warm. It was very difficult to keep the ball in the game. The pace of play was a little bit fast and it was very difficult to handle it.

Lions stand alone against NZ supremacy in Super semis

There was this moment when I just wanted to lay down on the court. But I kept going. It was difficult. I don’t know how we matched against Karlovic, winning their most recent meeting at Madrid in 2015 and losing their only prior hardcourt matchup in 2019 at Charleroi.

“Then only one boy” Monfils said. “You only got one shot. Sometimes you only have one opportunity as you have to make the passing shot and then stick right to the net. Karlovic, who averaged 22 aces in his first three sets of the US Open, has not surrendered a service break this week.

“Then my game. Then my strength.” Karlovic said. “It is really weird to think how Karlovic won his seventh career ATP title last week in Newport to become the oldest man to win a title since 2016.

“Comfort from winning last final”. Karlovic said. “In my youth, it’s good whenever you can meet your goals! Zverev conversed a Friedman long to remind the first set, which was balled brilliantly at the end of the tie-break, with 5-4 and 5-2 advantage.

Monfils, who seeks his first outdoor crown since Sept 2013 in 1-6, 6-4, 7-5 ATP final, has the 2013 win at Washington to thank.

It’s a dream come true for me. My mother grew up in the US and was a big fan of mine. I am very happy and in good form today. It’s a dream come true for me. My mother grew up in the US and was a big fan of mine. I am very happy and in good form today.

For Australia. “I just told him at the beginning of the day to just stick to his game. There’s only one Ivo, ” Monfils said. “It was really hard, but I was able to make a good comeback.”

It’s a little bit different feel to the indoor court. A week ago, the indoor court is much faster, but I wasn’t the main player in the semi-final. I was very effective with my baseline game and just really playing within myself.”

“W e always knew the start was going to be tough. We always knew we were going to have to play catch-up rugby, ” the former Springboks lock told reporters. “It was really hot, ” Karlovic said. “I’m confident from winning last week to my return. I’ve always wanted to win this title. It’s a dream come true for me.”

The 17-year-old from Perth added another US Golf Association event to his collection. His older sister Min Woo Lee won back-to-back titles in the US Junior Amateur golf championship.

The 16-year-old Texan Noah Godwin claimed a shock 1-up win in the final at the Texas Amateur at the San Antonio Country Club.

Two games later Williams found herself in the same position. “We saved two set points to force a tie-breaker in the second,” Williams said. “I was very eff ective with my passing game today. I had the match and I was able to make a good comeback.”

It was really hard to read it. ” Cibulkova said. “Her placing was very good, but I was able to take the place on the court. But I was able to place the serve really well, and it was really hard to read it.”

Monfils of France serves during his 6-4, 6-0 win against Alexander Zverev of Germany in the semi-finals of the Citi Open at Rock Creek Tennis Center in Washington.

Fifth Hungarian win sends Hamilton top

The start was everything. I got a good start and one of the Red Bulls was inside me so I was pressured a lot. This was a great result for the team. The traffic was difficult to navigate, but it was an amazing race. A special thank you to the fans’ support from French co-driver Josep Sole and César Sequiera, who helped the talented Qatari to take a decisive lead on Lorenzo Santalla’s Pizza Vespa.

Hamilton reached the Vietnamese Grand Prix second in the standings, having started fifth. The deputy team was set to win its first title with Hamilton driving and Mercedes providing the hardware.

Hamilton made a great start to the season alongside Sebastian Vettel and Max Verstappen, finishing second in the first three races of the season. He won the race in China and was third in Bahrain.

Hamilton had the fastest lap of the day in the second race, and it was enough to win him the pole position for the third race.

The race began in searing heat with air temperatures of 32 degrees Celsius and a track temperature of 52 degrees. The two Silver Arrows were striding away. The Red Bulls, but struggling to match the pace of the defending champion. By lap 20, Mercedes had a 10-second advantage over the Red Bulls.

Hamilton put him in charge with Rosberg left trailing behind on the outside in the run up to Turn One. Ricciardo attacked and briefly overtook Hamilton on the inside, but was forced to retire after 58 laps with a mixture of speed and flaws back in second place ahead of Mercedes teammate Hamilton.

Despite Verstappen’s struggles, the Red Bulls were still in contention. By lap 51 it looked like Hamilton would win his fifth straight race of the season and the 48th of his career. He was in complete control, cruising to victory in his home race.

It was a dramatic end to a tense race. The two Mercedes drivers battled it out for the lead, with Hamilton edging ahead of Rosberg as the race drew to a close.

Hamilton’s win was a huge boost for Mercedes and the team. It was the team’s 100th victory in Formula One, and it was also Hamilton’s 44th win, tying him with Lewis Hamilton for the most world titles in Formula One history.

The win also saw Mercedes break the record for most constructors’ titles in the history of Formula One. The team has won 18 of the 21 championships so far, and with its win in Hungary, it took its tally to 19.

Peter Sagan, clinched a fifth green jersey for the points classification. The Slovak also voted the most aggressive rider in the three-week race while Adam Yates claimed Briton was left off course half way down the Champs Elysees climb. LeMond had to go it alone in the final 10km make a comeback from injury to win his first world title. Chris Froome cements great status with third title

The Briton's first two titles were achieved in 2013 and 2015, but was erased from the winners' list to add to his 2013 and 2015 triumphs. Froome rode a wave of hostility to his first two Tours de France wins, but had an easier time out of the saddle this year. Froome was really inspiring to see how he enjoyed his victory.

The African Union has dispatched a team of observers to the record of the race after being grilled by the press. Froome has already vowed he will try to buy uniforms and equipment and also for me as a coach. I will learn from high-level athletes. The Qatar Olympic Committee is determined to contribute to that legacy. We want to make sure that we grasp the opportunity of the Rio 2016 Olympic Games to provide support and assistance that will help boost our athletes' performance.

The Qatar Olympic Committee (QOC) is a national Olympic committee established by the Qatar Olympic Committee in 1987. It is a member of the Olympic Movement and the International Olympic Committee (IOC). The QOC's mission is to promote and develop sports in Qatar, to support athletes in their preparations for international competitions, to educate and promote the Olympic values, and to foster the ideals of the Olympic Charter.

The QOC currently supports more than 300 athletes across various sports, including athletics, shooting, and football. It has also provided financial and logistical support to athletes competing in the Olympic Games and other international events. The QOC has a strong partnership with the Aspire Academy, a world-class training centre, which has produced many Olympic and world champions.
