“Ensuring the safety and security of tourists is something for every visitor: luxury, comfort, and safety,” said Syed Al-Moosawi, director of the Qatar Tourism Authority (QTA). “Our focus is on making Qatar a safe and welcoming destination for visitors from around the world.”

Syed also lauded QT for its recent participation in the International Tourism Trade Fair (ITTF) in Rome, where the country witnessed an exceptional level of interest and enthusiasm for Qatar’s tourism products and services.

The event was a major highlight for QT, as it provided a valuable opportunity for the authority to engage with potential partners and stakeholders from across the globe.

“During QT’s participation in the ITTF, we had the chance to connect with a wide range of international businesses and organizations, exploring new partnerships and opportunities for collaboration,” noted Syed. “These connections are crucial for shaping Qatar’s tourism landscape and driving continued growth.”

QT’s participation in the ITTF is just one example of the authority’s efforts to promote Qatar as a destination. The state-owned body is dedicated to delivering high-quality services and experiences to visitors, fostering sustainable tourism development, and ensuring the safety and security of all guests.

QT’s commitment to excellence is evident in its various initiatives and programs, including the implementation of advanced technologies, the enhancement of infrastructure, and the promotion of cultural and heritage sites.

The tourism sector in Qatar is expected to pick up significantly in 2023, following a period of growth in previous years. The country is positioning itself as a destination of choice for visitors from around the world, with a focus on delivering exceptional experiences and ensuring the safety and security of all guests.

“Qatar’s vision is to become a global leader in the tourism industry, attracting visitors from all over the world,” said Syed. “We are committed to delivering the best possible experiences and ensuring that Qatar remains a top destination for visitors.”

QT’s continued success and growth are a testament to the dedication and hard work of its team members, as well as the support of government officials and stakeholders.

As Qatar continues to emerge as a global tourism destination, the country is poised for continued success and growth in the years to come. The tourism sector is expected to play a significant role in the country’s economic development, fostering job creation, and driving overall growth.
